

TruOps GRC Hub Wins the CSO Perspectives 2011 Award for Innovation

NAPLES, FL – CSO PERSPECTIVES 2011

At the CSO Perspectives 2011 conference for CSOs, CISOs and IT security experts organized by CSO magazine, SDG Corporation's truly innovative TruOps GRC Hub walked away with top honors, demonstrating the company's ongoing commitment to improving information technology security and governance.

Combining unique architecture that sits lightly on top of client environments, and yet producing powerful dashboard views for security executives, operations staff and business stakeholders, TruOps GRC Hub delivers unparalleled insight, coordination and value.

TruOps GRC Hub won "Best New Technology Demonstration" with the best combination of innovation and utility. Naresh Podila, SDG Vice President of Client Solutions demonstrated and highlighted the TruOps benefits that answer the challenges faced by CSOs who seek a GRC framework of best practices, technology integration and high-impact reporting.

TruOps GRC Hub captures policy and performance data from IT and business data sources and coalesces it into coherent metrics and alerts. "First Responders" as well as affected business owners can receive real time information on compliance gaps and risks. The solution tracks the disposition of Servers, Cloud Resources, and Business Applications, while maintaining standards, monitoring compliance and evaluating exposure.

With the expertise SDG has accumulated from building security solutions for leading global organizations, TruOps is a robust framework for accelerating risk visibility and managing compliance in complex enterprises.

Ajay Gupta, President of SDG, said, "C-level executives can finally approach GRC proactively with an accurate set of gauges for corporate governance, risk, and compliance. Achieving this recognition from CSO Perspectives' judges underscores the immense benefits TruOps delivers to our clients, and our commitment to enterprise governance."

"The panel of CISO judges rated each product/service in two criteria: innovation and utility," said CSO Editor in Chief Derek Slater. "The competition was tight, but in the end the judges were most impressed with SDG Corporation."
